

How to Win Friends & Influence People

THE SOCIAL ENGINEER'S PLAYBOOK

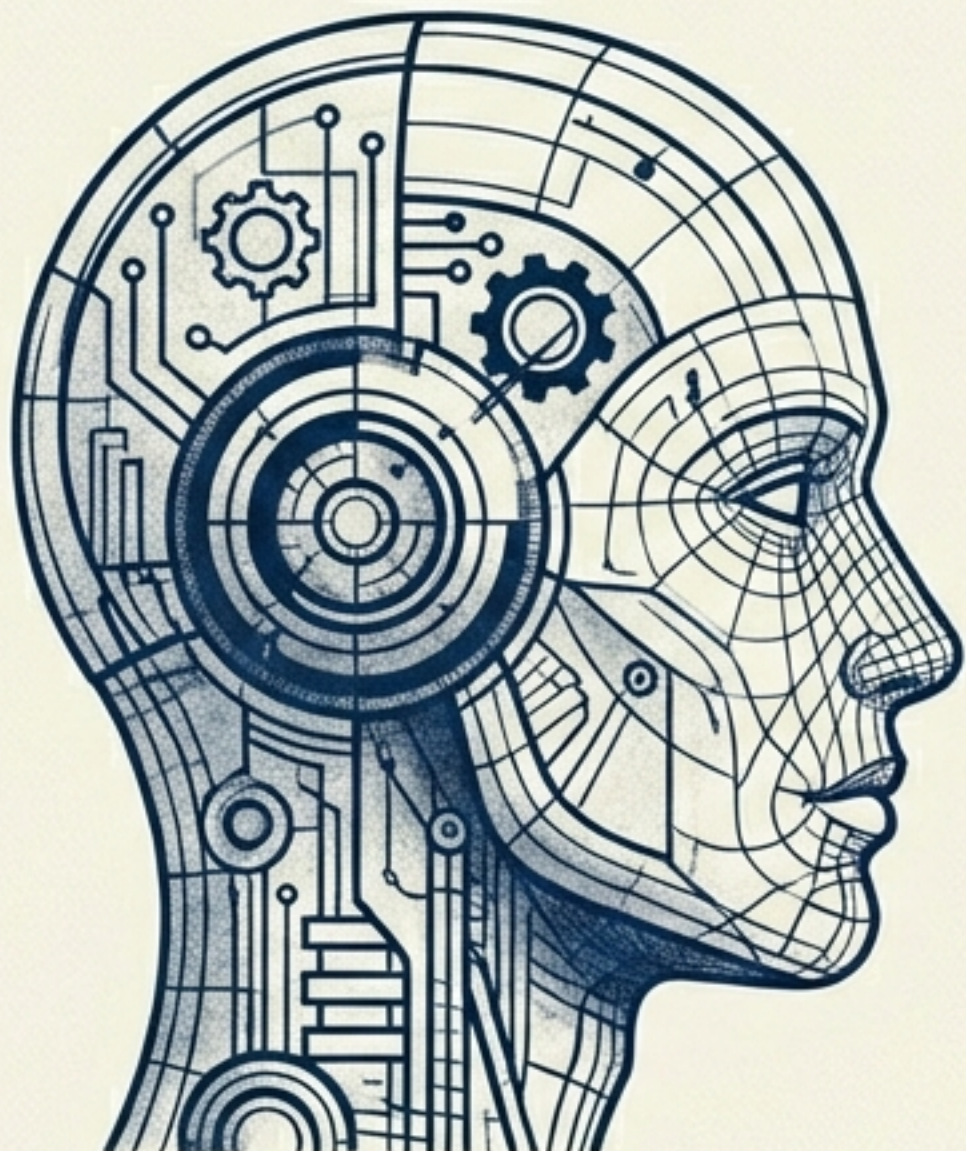

Education is not knowledge, but action. — Herbert Spencer

The 85% Rule

Research by the Carnegie Foundation reveals that even in technical fields, financial success is overwhelmingly determined by personality and leadership.

The highest-paid ability under the sun.

LOGIC

EMOTION

When dealing with people, remember you are not dealing with creatures of logic, but creatures of emotion.

The Killer with the Kind Heart

- Villain: “Two Gun” Crowley, trapped by 150 police officers.
- Delusion: While firing at police, he wrote: “Under my coat is a weary heart, but a kind one.”
- Lesson: If a desperate criminal believes he is virtuous, the people you work with certainly won’t blame themselves.

The Unmailed Letter

Abraham Lincoln wrote a furious letter to General Meade for failing to attack Lee at Gettysburg. It was a stinging rebuke.

Lincoln never mailed it. He knew that criticism would only force Meade to justify himself and destroy his morale.

PRINCIPLE 1: Don't criticize, condemn, or complain.

The Million-Dollar Secret

Charles Schwab was paid $1 million a year not for his knowledge of steel, but for his ability to arouse enthusiasm.

“I consider my ability to arouse enthusiasm among my people the greatest asset I possess... There is nothing else that so kills the ambitions of a person as criticisms from superiors.”

Appreciation vs. Flattery

APPRECIATION

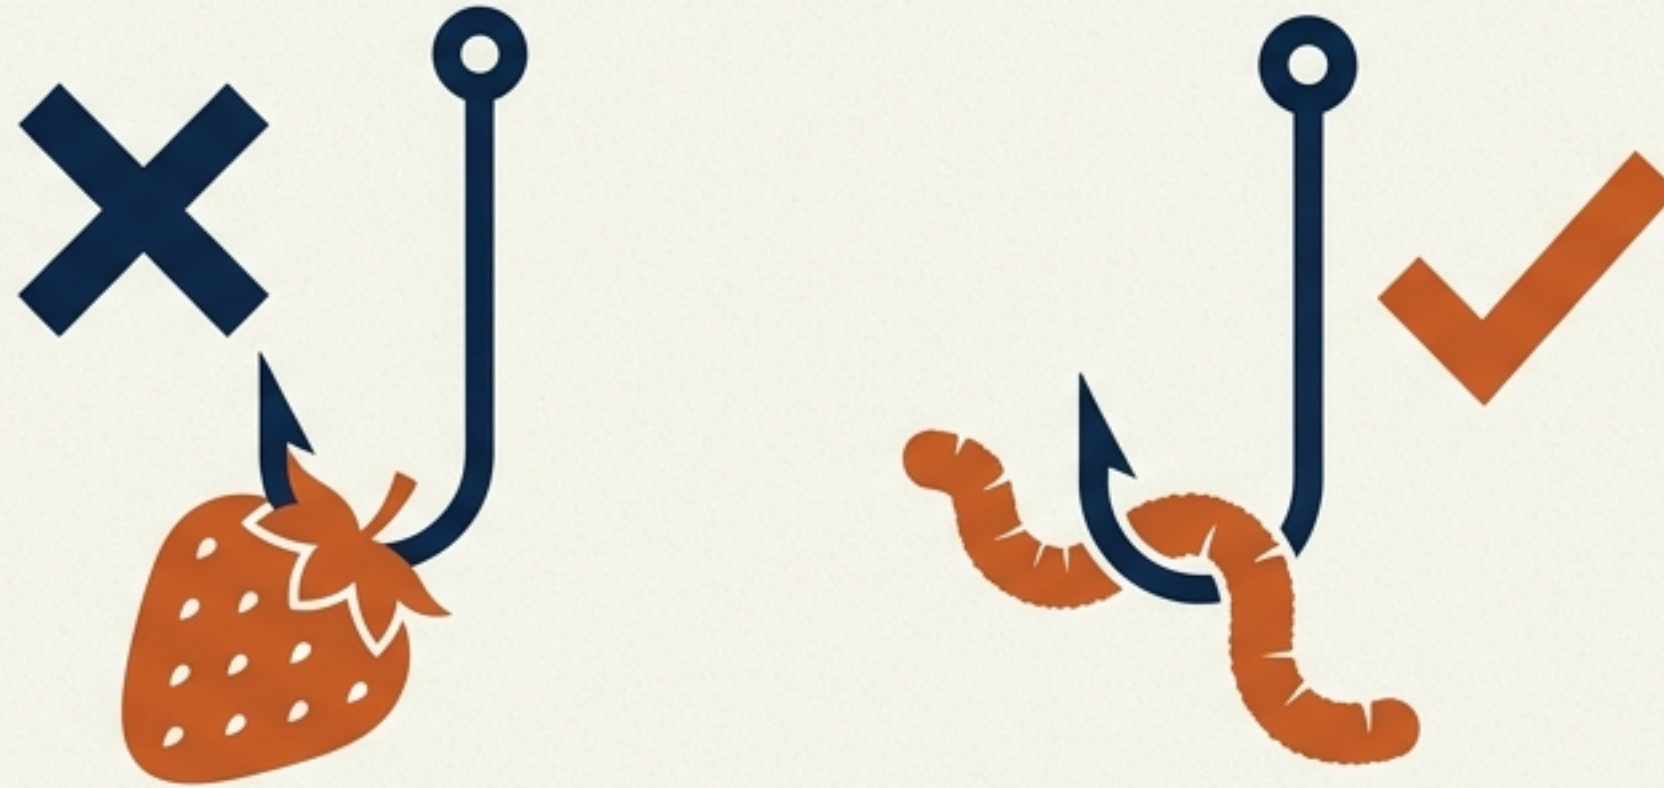

- Sincere
- From the heart
- Unselfish
- Universally admired

FLATTERY

- Insincere
- From the teeth out
- Selfish
- Universally condemned

PRINCIPLE 2: Give honest and sincere appreciation.

Bait the Hook to Suit the Fish

You love strawberries. Fish prefer worms. Why bait the hook with what YOU want?

To influence others, you must talk about what THEY want and show them how to get it.

PRINCIPLE 3: Arouse in the other person an eager want.

The Only Animal That Doesn't Work for a Living

A hen lays eggs. A cow gives milk. A canary sings. A dog gives you nothing but love.

You can make more friends in two months by becoming interested in other people than you can in you can in two years by trying to get them interested in you.

PRINCIPLE 1: Become genuinely interested in other people.

The Million Dollar Expression

“Action seems to follow feeling, but really action and feeling go together.” — William James Force yourself to smile. Act as if you were already happy, and that will tend to make you happy.

PRINCIPLE 2: Smile.

The Sweetest Sound

Jim Farley became Postmaster General because he could call 50,000 people by their first name.

The average person is more interested in their own name than in all the other names on earth put together.

PRINCIPLE 3: Remember their name.

The Art of Silence

Few human beings are proof against the implied flattery of rapt attention.

Carnegie was once called a “great conversationalist” after an evening where he said hardly a word.

PRINCIPLE 4: Be a good listener. Encourage others to talk about themselves.

The Roosevelt Method

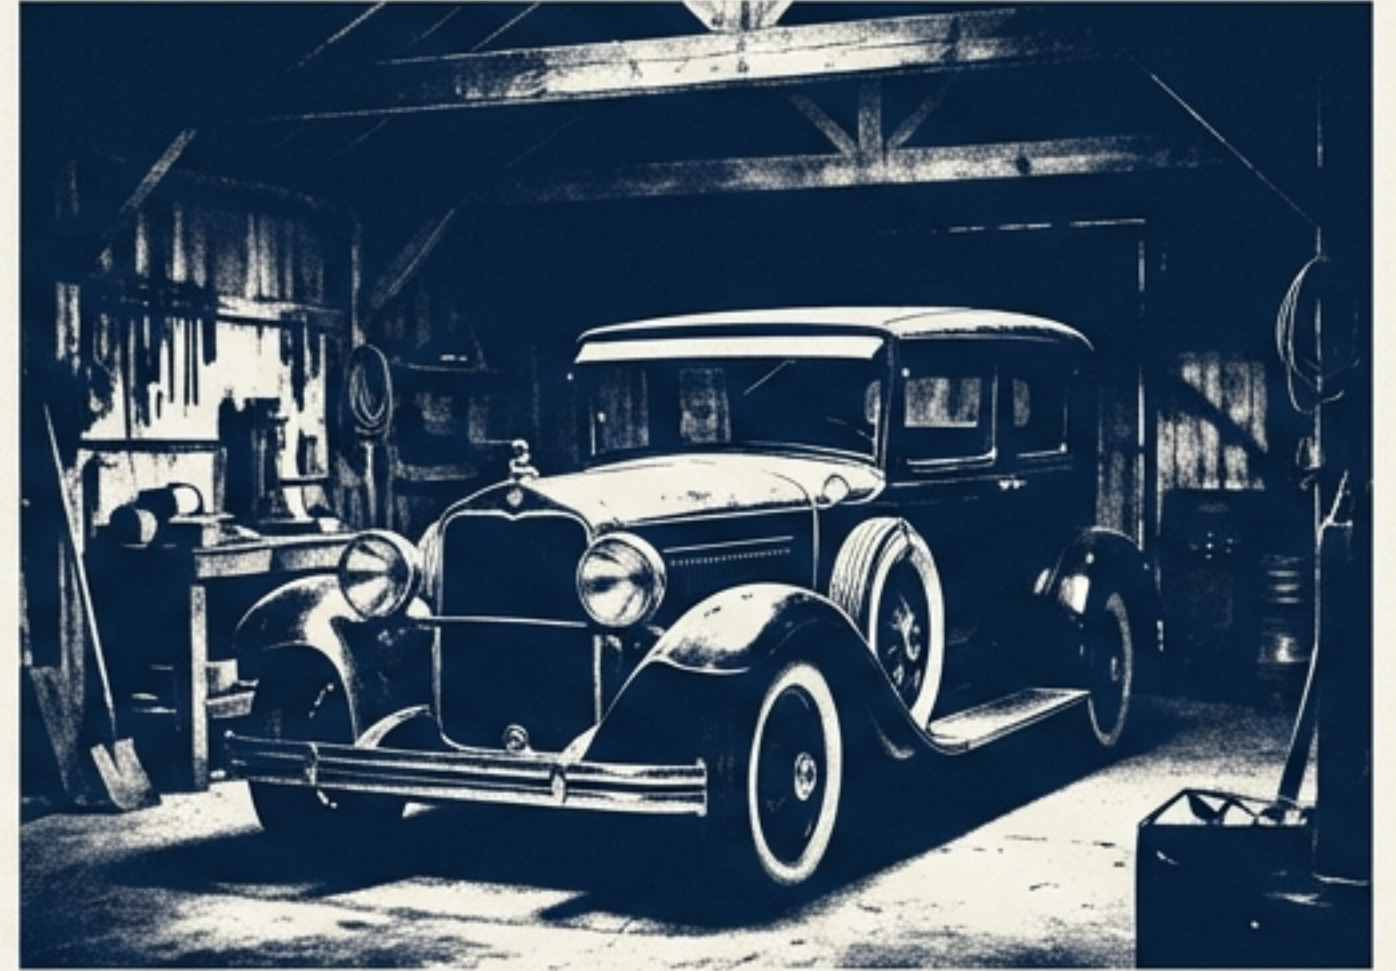

Whenever Theodore Roosevelt expected a visitor, he sat up late the night before reading up on the subject his guest was interested in.

The royal road to a person's heart is to talk about the things they treasure most.

The Deepest Urge

A lonely woman gave away her cherished Packard to a stranger simply because he admired her house and antiques. She was starving for recognition.

“Every man I meet is my superior in some way. In that, I learn of him.” — Emerson

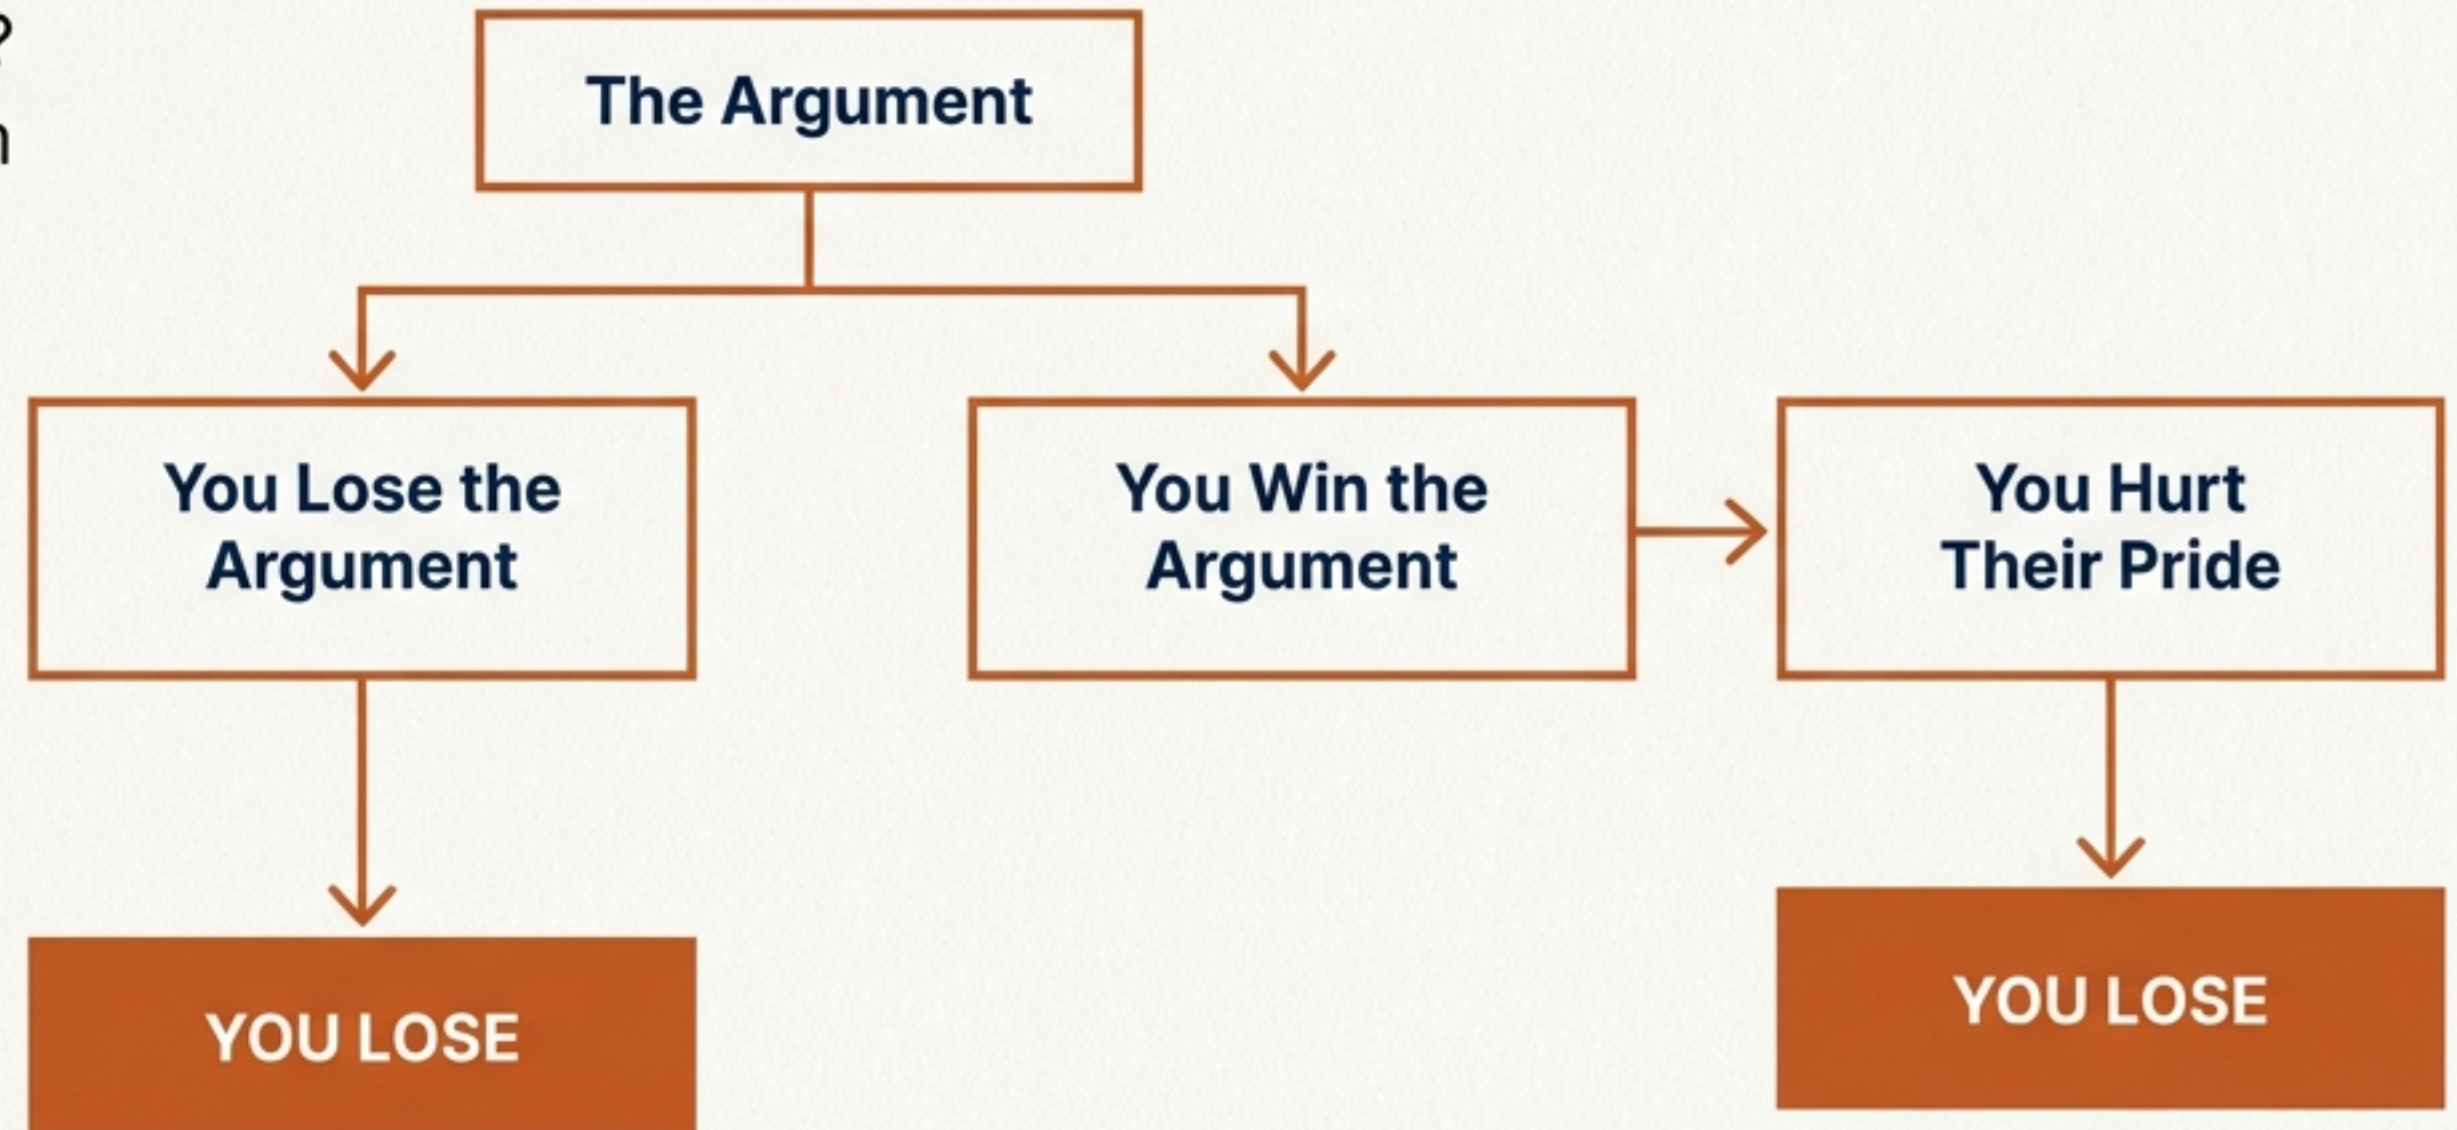

PRINCIPLE 6: Make the other person feel important—and do it sincerely.

PART 3: WINNING PEOPLE TO YOUR WAY OF THINKING

You cannot teach a man anything; you can only help him to find it within himself. — Galileo

The Impossible Victory

Why prove a man wrong?
Is that going to make him
like you?

PRINCIPLE 1: The only way to get the best of an argument is to avoid it.

The 'You're Wrong' Trap

Telling someone they are wrong is a direct challenge. It forces them to defend their ego, not their logic.

The Fix

Replace "You're wrong" with:

"I may be wrong. I frequently am. Let's examine the facts."

PRINCIPLE 2: Show respect for others' opinions. Never say "You're wrong."

Beat Them to the Punch

When caught without a muzzle, the author didn't make excuses. He admitted guilt immediately and emphatically.

RESULT: The policeman, needing a feeling of importance, showed mercy.

PRINCIPLE 3: If you are wrong, admit it quickly and emphatically.

The Social Engineer's Cheat Sheet

• Don't Criticize • Give Appreciation • Arouse Eager Wants	• Be Interested • Smile • Remember Names • Listen • Talk Their Interests • Make Them Feel Important	• Avoid Arguments • Respect Opinions • Admit Faults

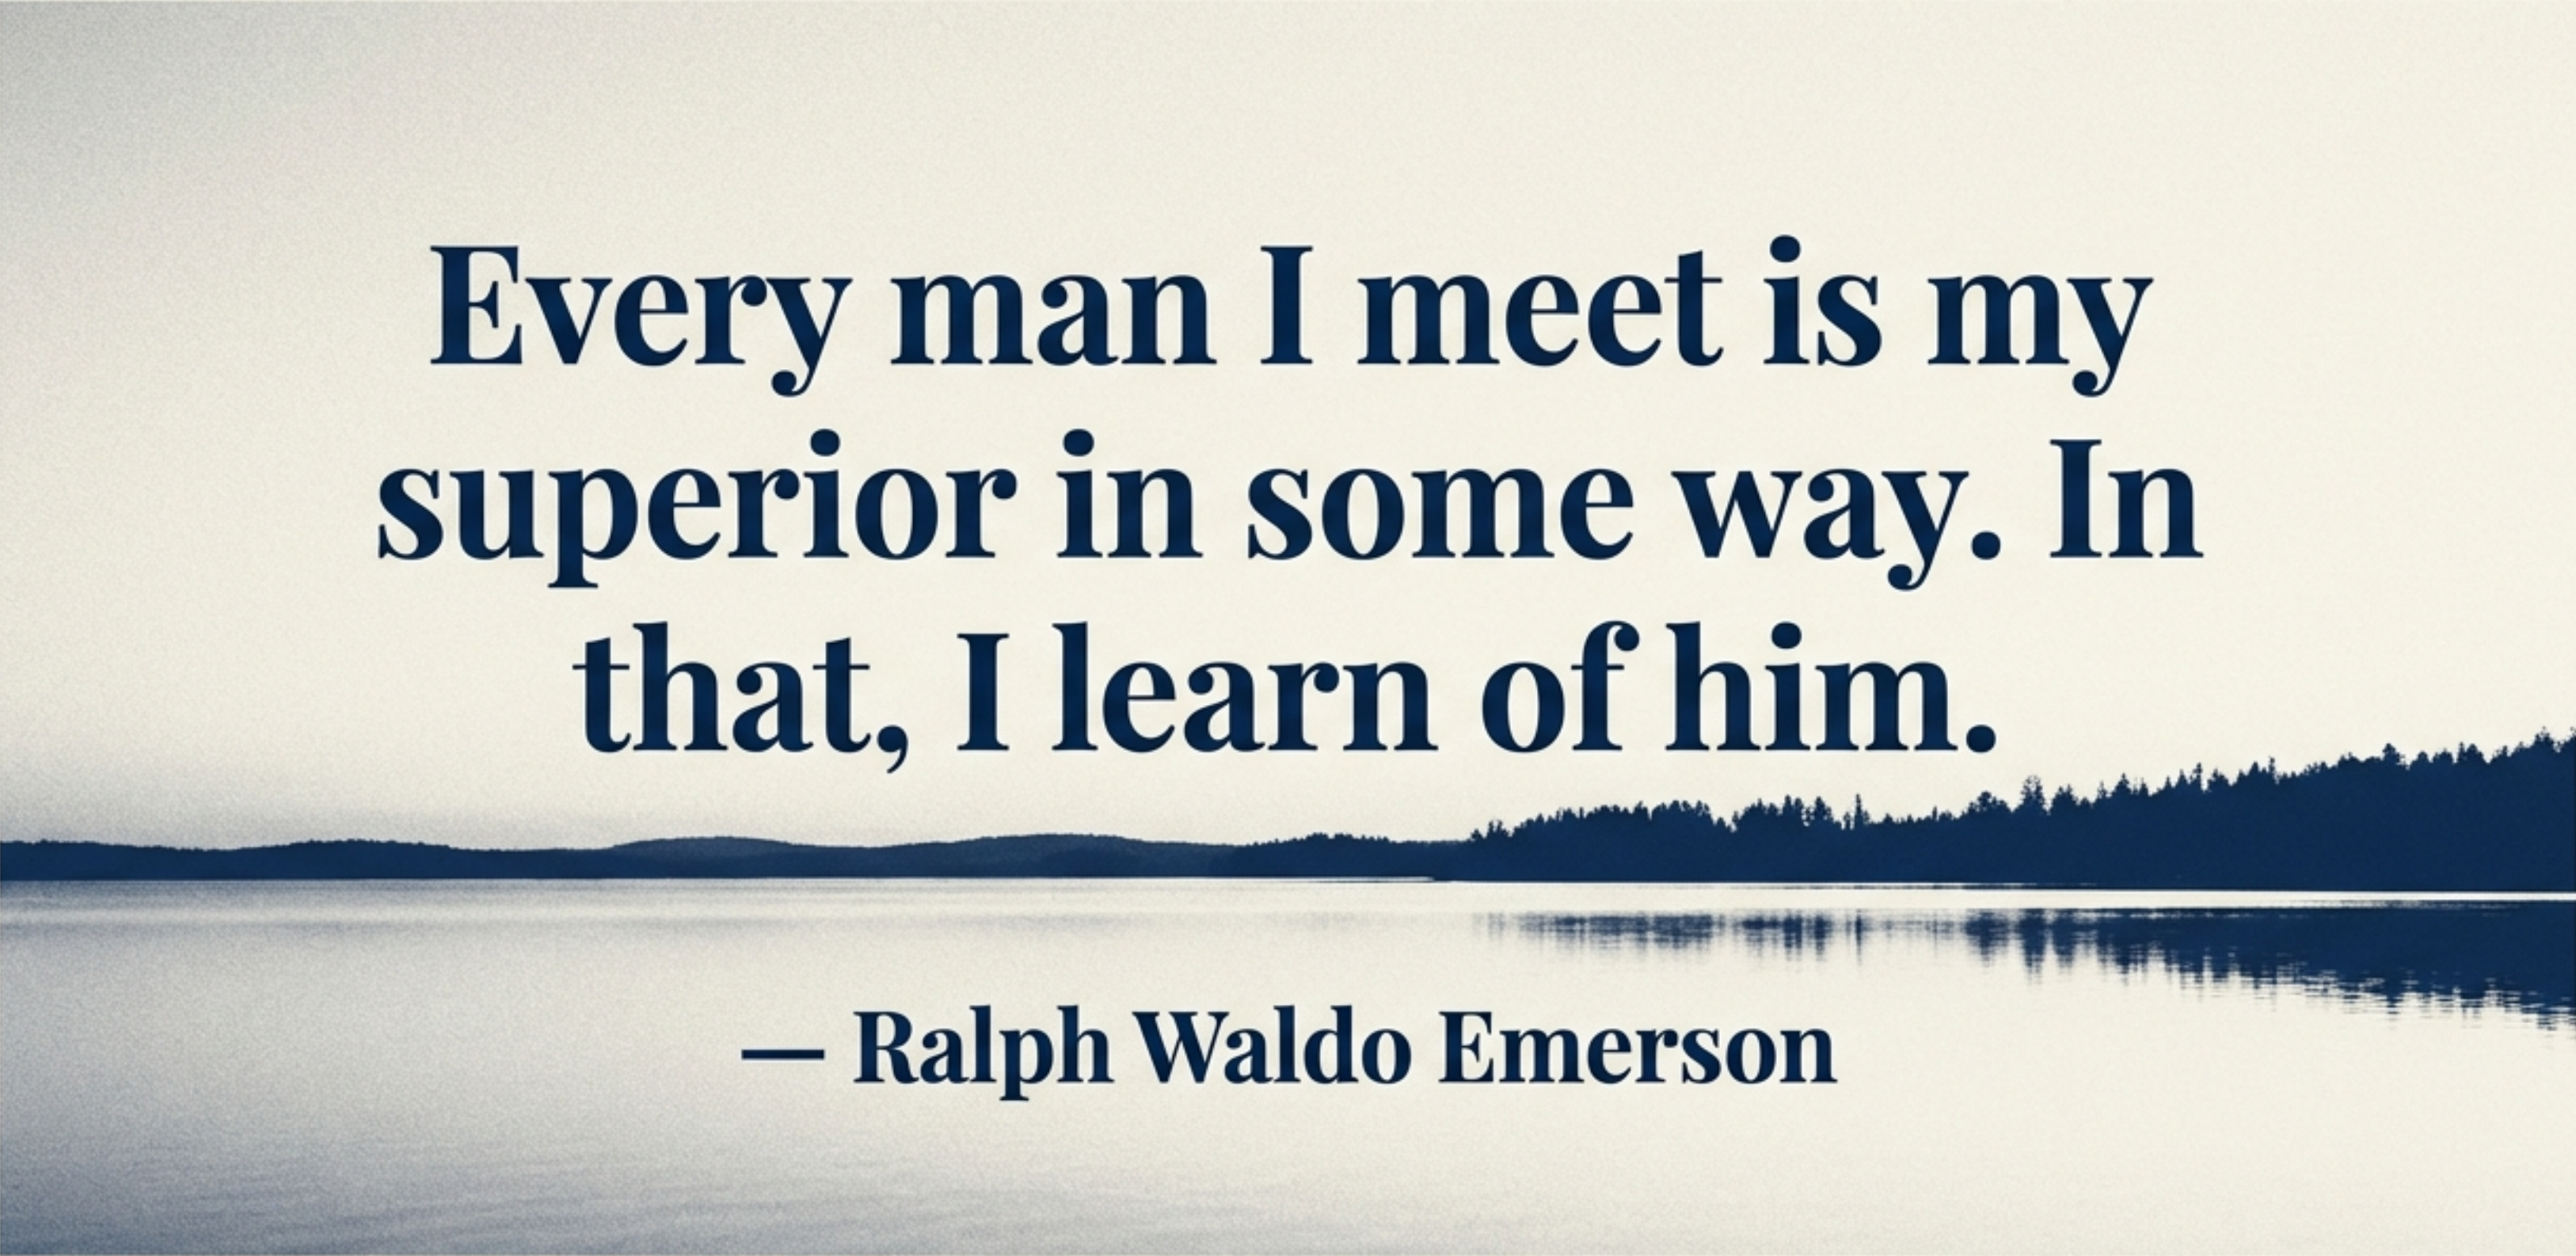

Education is Action

“The great aim of education is not knowledge but action.” — Herbert Spencer

Action Plan

- 1. Don't just read this. Use it.
- 2. Offer a friend a dollar every time they catch you violating a principle.
- 3. Weekly Review: What mistakes did I make? How could I have improved?

Every man I meet is my superior in some way. In that, I learn of him.

— Ralph Waldo Emerson

Go forth and learn.
